JAY H. NEFF HALL PROGRESSES

Twenty Men at Work on Building This Week.

The brick work on Jay H. Neff Hall will be done in a little more than three weeks according to C. W. Loomis, the contractor. There will be a delay in the brick work soon in order to "pour" the second floor, which Mr. Loomis says is slow work. "This is what is known as awkward structure," said Mr. Loomis. He explains this term by saying that in the details of most buildings when one thing has been done that there are a number of other things similar to it that will follow, but that similarity in construction is almost absent from this building. Mr. Loomis has fifty pages of blue prints for detail description of the construction. The only wood about the entire work will be a few pieces in the loft. There are twenty men working now and they hope to have material on the ground as they need it from now on. Some fear of the effects of the threatened strike of the railroad employees has been expressed because of the slowness of material to arrive under normal conditions.
